The last time Mme. Scalchi was in Pittsburg a girl called to sing for her. She was "crasy to go on the opera singe," and wanted "some points about studying abroad." She had a little more voice than a parrot, and Scalchi advised her to go to Boston instead of Paris, offering her a card to a famous professor. The next day brought a pert letter from the young person. However, she went to the Hub and began a course of 5 apiece lessons. Last week a letter came from the old musician, mildly abusing her for advising such people to study. He could do nothing with her protege, who had no talent and no more chance of public success than a little brown sparrow.
